The Archaeology of Knowledge. The Archeology of Knowledge is Foucault's attempt, after the fact, to describe theoretically the method he used in his first three books of history (Madness and Civilization, The Birth of the Clinic, and The Order of Things). This is, then, not the presentation of a formal theory built logically from axioms, but a ...

Abstract. The Archaeology of Knowledge attempts to provide a novel means of analysing knowledges. We have already seen that Foucault attempts through the category of the episteme to locate a level at which the analysis of knowledges might operate, a level which refuses either to synthesise them at the manifest level of the text or by reference to some presumed level of an essence, be that the ...
